Re: McGillicuddy House

Dear Eric:

The Historic Preservation Commission would like to thank you and Eric Zimmer for your McGillicuddy House project presentation at our February 5, 2010 Commission meeting.

The Historic Preservation Commission appreciates the involvement and enthusiasm of your Introduction to Public History students in the possible restoration and future use of the property. The Commission is especially appreciative of your efforts to bring this project to the attention of the Rapid City community. The Commission looks forward to learning the results of your March 21, 2010 community forum in the Dakota Middle School auditorium.

The preservation of Rapid City's history and historic fabric is the primary goal of the Historic Preservation Commission. The Commission would be unable to accomplish that goal without the involvement of individuals such as you and your students. As this project moves forward it will help to call attention to the community value of restoring and preserving Rapid City's rich historic fabric.

On behalf of the Rapid City Historic Preservation Commission, I thank you and your students for your work on the McGillicuddy House project.

Sincerely,

Pat Roseland, Chairman
Rapid City Historic Preservation Commission
