Mr. & Mrs. Linde:

In preparation for siding the final side of the Carriage House, we have inspected your Chicken Coop building and have found the condition of the structure to be extremely poor. The structural integrity of the framing has been severely compromised from a lack of good construction to the foundation along with years of settling. We believe it is dangerous and poses a significant safety issue to our company as there is no way we can work on the adjoining wall without standing on the structure. I would also advise that you refrain from using it, if at all possible, until it can be removed.

It is our recommendation that it be torn down. Repairing the existing structure would be impossible. The settling and deterioration is too severe.

Please contact us if you have any further questions.

Sincerely,

Jamie DeWitt – President
