Subject: lighting ordinance

Joel,

Doug and I met with you to discuss about letting us do the electrical satellite updates on our billboard without going through the process of acquiring a sign building permit.

Currently the code says a sign building permit is required whenever we do a "structural change". In the sign code definition, it defines a structural change as anything except changing the advertising message, painting the sign or changing a light bulb.

Our suggestion is to insert an "electrical update" as an exemption to a structural change. That way all the rest of the code stays intact.

Can we meet with you this week to discuss. I will give you a call to confirm a time.

Thanks,

Terry Olson
